Introduction

I'm a 20 years old software engineering student at Univates looking for my first internship/job. I already have a few skills that I've developed since I joined Univates. I started to learn how to code in Java, and after a year and a half in Univates, I began to learn Web Development on my own.

Overall, I'm a young man that enjoys learning new abilities and tasks (mostly have an easy time doing it), I fit well to new environments and also like to work within teams.
